
Logitech G25 Racing Wheel

Posted by phastafrican - 2008/08/08 14:45

I havent really got a chance to set it up yet but I tested it and it was super awesome. I am a bit bummed out about so clutch support on the ps2, but hopefully I'll have a ps3 soon and I wont worry about that.

Pics and comments on the hardware to come later when its set up.

I had a look at this when it first came out. A bit of a shocking price tag, I believe it was about £180.

Still, it did look impressive and it has foot pedels and a gear stick.

I'd love to see how it handles, let us know.

Its pretty sweet.

I just moved and haven't even set up a desk yet. So here's my racing cockpit for the weekend. lol

I picked it up for $238 shipped from pcmicrostore. plays decent enough, very strong force feedback but dont have a real gaming rig to really hook it up to. In due time... anybody else got one?

Too much cash, I need some racing games for it first.
Awesome setup by the way..

i've gotta admit it costs a pretty penny. But it is the cheapest 3 pedal h-shift around. I'm already a racing game fanatic, so the games - i've already got.
Cant wait till i have some more money for a real cockpit(car seat and all)

If only I had the space... I'd get that and build a cock pit too.

Here's what I'm gonna build by the end of the year.

Without the lcd tv.

You could rip the dash out of a car and install it into that.

I'm sure you could get one cheap from a scrap heap.

Just got it hooked up to my ps3. Was a headache trying to play it with GRID. needs a lot of tuning, too sensitive. Overall, not the most fun experience so far. didn't get a chance to test it on NFS carbon yet, but I'll do that today. the clutch works on grid, but i was too busy trying to steer straight.

The wheel looks awesome, no doubt about it.

Is the shift gear optional or essential? I might pick one of these babies up for Trackmania.

That's laaaame.

You need to get hooked up with one of these. :woohoo:

EDIT do embeded videos not work? :silly:

ok well here's the link to youtube...

He's right. You pasted HTML code. HTML and other scripts can be hazardous to a lot of websites and their visitors which is why most forums disable the use of it.

I don't know of a single forum that allows you to embed HTML, and the ones that do are run by idiots since they are unaware of the potential problems that it can create.

BBcode exists to give the abilities of HTML but in a controlled way, using only a select number of formatting methods with none of the dangerous stuff.

You can create BBcode to include flash if this is what you mean, but the code you pasted wasn't BBcode... it was HTML.

haha wow I didn't know :laugh:

But yeah a lot of the forums I go on do allow embeded youtube :blink: I'll ask the owners and see if they know that. :P

How do you embed videos with BB code then? :ohmy:

Im actually planning on buying this wheel for GT4 but it seems a bit expensive. I will probably stick with the one Logitech made before this one which runs about 85 if you look hard. or I can stick with an old one which runs at about 50. All I want is to just play GT4 im not really looking for an expensive set up

I don't think there's any code to do it at the moment. I tried clicking "Boardcode" and it said something about the server company scamming them.

I'm sure that's probably a mistake in the setup of the forums, you should look into that Hatrix.
